JAPANESE FLEET BADLY SHATTERED

By RICHARD HALLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, June 8.—The toll of Japanese warships sunk or damaged in the great sea and air battle off the island of Midway was brought to a possible total of 17 today with announcement by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz that another vessel of the enemy fleet has been sunk by United States forces.

Admiral Nimitz, commander in chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet, revealed the sinking of a Japanese destroyer in communiqué No. 4 in which he said that contact had been lost with the crippled enemy armada which is continuing to flee.

At the same time he disclosed that an American destroyer had been sent to the bottom by a Jap submarine. Nearby ships rescued the United States personnel and there was small loss of life, Admiral Nimitz said.

Small U. S. Loss

The loss of the American destroyer was insignificant compared with the damage inflicted on the Japs.

Conclude Navy Week With Parade-Induction On Saturday Night

Three Are Killed Struck By Auto

Few military ceremonies seen in New Castle have been more colorful or fraught with meaning than the induction of 24 volunteers into the United States navy Saturday night in the Cathedral. The ceremony was the conclusion of a week of activity designed to stimulate young recruiting, and at the close of the service the naval officers themselves as delighted, not alone with the results, but with the apparent enthusiasm engendered for the navy here during the week.

Preceding the induction ceremony was a large parade. Bands and uniforms, flags and standards, military and civilian units made a colorful spectacle as the line of march swung along the downtown streets.

Perfect Weather

For the parade the weather was perfect. At 7:35 Grand Marshal Chester C. Sweesy gave the command to move out from Jefferson and Washington streets, and the parade started. State police in cars moved out first to see that the crowded streets were open sufficiently to permit the passage of the marchers. City police had the line top of them.

Curliss Shaw, of Wildwood, driver of a car carrying a party of eight youths and girls was held in $5000 bail for the Cape May grand jury on a manslaughter charge. Shaw did not see the Camp family on the unlighted road until he was top of them.

Leningrad And Sevastopol Areas Scene Of Heavy Fighting Today

NAZIS REPelled MOSCOW REPORTS

Battle For Crimean City Continues In Third Day Says Moscow

BY JAMES E. BROWN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, June 8.—Heavy fighting raged at two widely-separated points on the 1,800-mile Russo-German front today—Leningrad to the north and Sevastopol far to the south in the Crimea—and in both sectors the Nazis were reported repelled.

In each instance, the Germans threw heavy forces against the long-leaguered garrisons and used air support in a futile effort to blast out the defenders.

The Leningrad radio reported bluntly that Nazi attacks on Russia's second city had "failed" and added that the assaulting troops had been forced to retreat after launching fierce counter attacks that resulted in intense fighting.

Battle At Sevastopol

An early morning communiqué admitted that stubborn fighting continued in the Sevastopol area around the mighty Russian naval base on the Black Sea, but said the enemy attacks were "repelled with heavy losses."

The battle for the strategic Crimean city continued in its third day, the official announcement declared.

Melbourne Radio Hails Result Of Sea Battle Off Midway Island

TWICE NOW JAP FLEET HAS FLED

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—

The Midway Island naval battle was hailed by the Melbourne radio today as possibly meaning the beginning of the end of Japan's supremacy of the sea."

"The most persistent legend—the legend that the Japanese navy is invincible and that she is the steel wall which protects Japan—has now been shattered off Midway Island," the Australian radio commentator declared.

"Thus twice within a few weeks the Japanese navy turned tail and fled, first in the Coral Sea and now at Midway Island. With considerable losses in both battles, particularly off Midway, a definite change in the balance of sea power has occurred—a change which may well mean the beginning of the end of Japan's supremacy of the sea."

The broadcast was heard by the CBS shortwave listening station San Francisco.

prestige of this country in the few remaining neutral nations of the world.

It is seen likely to stiffen the resistance of those elements in France, Spain and Portugal who oppose closer collaboration with the Axis.

It will prove of invaluable help to the American cause in Turkey where the government has been sitting on the fence uncertain which side was going to win the war.

Officials also believe it may prove the very development needed to encourage Finland to resist the German pressure on that country to join in an all-out offensive against Russia.

Finland Warned

On Saturday, Secretary of State Hull warned Finland that it faces the danger of an American declaration of war if it joins in an offensive against Russia as a result of Adolf Hitler's recent visit to Helsinki.

If the Finns become satisfied in their own minds that the Axis is going to be defeated in this war, it is thought that they will refuse to join with Germany in the forthcoming all-out Nazi drive against the Soviets.

American officials are of the opinion that the U. S. naval victory in the Pacific will go a long way toward convincing the Finns that the Axis is the losing side in the world conflict.

The American naval victory also is expected to prove a timely and much needed tonic for China. The Chinese are known to have been extremely discouraged recently as a result of the cutting of the Burma road and the apparent decision of the United Nations to concentrate on smashing Hitler as the first major objective of their grand strategy.

The setback to the Japanese navy is regarded as the most encouraging development for China, Australia and the other Pacific members of the United Nations that has occurred since Japan precipitated the Far Eastern war on December 7.

MISS HELEN J. HAINES WEDS DR. R. RODGERS

Miss Helen Jane Haines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blaine Haines of 15 Atlantic avenue, became the bride of Dr. Edson Rodgers, son of Mrs. Iris A. Rodgers, of Ninth street extension, Freedom, Pa., at a pretty wedding ceremony which took place in the lovely garden of the Rodgers residence. Friday afternoon, June 5, at 2:30 o'clock.

The impressive single ring ceremony was used, with the Rev. B. M. Baumgartner, being the officiating minister. The vows were pledged in the presence of guests numbering upwards of a hundred, amidst a quaint garden setting with peonies, roses and poppies lending a colorful background against a natural setting of evergreens.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractive in a gown of sheer white organdie, fashioned with short puffed sleeves and brief train outlined with a circular ruffling of embroidered organdie. Adding to the quaintness of her attire she wore a tulle ruffled bonnet with fingertip veil, and carried a prayer book encrusted with white roses and boxwood.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Roy B. Marion of Ellwood City, sister of the bride, was attired in sheer yellow marquise made with three-quarter length sleeves, sweetheart neckline and torso waistline, with full bouffant skirt. Her arm bouquet was of yellow roses and daisies. Adorning her hair were several yellow roses. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Harold Shane of Rochester, who appeared in a lime green marquise toe length gown, three-quarter length sleeves, outlined with a small matching ruffle. The bodice was fitted and her flowers were identical to that of the matron of honor's.

Brothers of the bridegroom, Lt. Roy Rodgers, served as best man, and Clifton E. Rodgers, usher.

Appropriate music was contributed by Miss Evelyn Lyle of Ambridge, who played "Because," "The Indian Love Call," "Ava Maria," "Loves Dream" and "To a Wild Rose."

The wedding reception was in the form of a garden party, the bridal table being attractively arranged on the terrace. Girl friends of the bride attired in summer formal gowns, white peonies, white roses and orange blossoms were the bride and groom, their attendants, Mrs. Daniel B. Woolcock, mother of the bride, and Mrs. John S. Riley, mother of the groom. Refreshments were served to the guests on the lawn in a lovely garden setting.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony a reception for family and friends was held at the Woolcock home. Receiving in the living room before an embankment of palms, white peonies, white roses and orange blossoms were the bride and groom, their attendants, Mrs. Daniel B. Woolcock, mother of the bride, and Mrs. John S. Riley, mother of the groom. Refreshments were served to the guests on the lawn in a lovely garden setting.

For the meeting, the Wallace home was decorated with a profusion of garden flowers. Tea was served in the dining room with Mrs. W. H. Luikart, Mrs. H. V. Mason and Miss Louise Guy.

The couple departed on a wedding trip to the Pocono mountains. They will be at home after July 1 at 207 Park avenue.

The bride graduated from the Greer school and Mount Holyoke college. She has been a teacher in the Ben Franklin school here for the past three years. The groom, a graduate of Geneva college, is treasurer and manager of the Vance and Old Furnace Coal companies.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included Miss Allison Ostrander of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott Tully and daughters, Nancy and Susan, of Mount Lebanon; Mrs. Thomas Parney and Mrs. Forrest Brown, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Raymond Fagley, of Lyons, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. James McCleary, of Cleveland; O. Mr. and Mrs. Odd H. McCleary, of Ellwood City; Mr. and Mrs. Don McCleary, of Wilson, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. TOTAL EFFORT WAR

JONATHAN DANIELS, assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense, is worthy of an orchid for his insistence that people have the wrong idea concerning total war. He points out that many persons have assumed it to mean total danger, whereas what it really signifies is total effort.

There is much to be said for this view. This way of looking at the war leads the citizens to think of it as one which demands his every contribution. Total war, regarded as total danger, merely offers the melancholy prospect of suffering without leading the citizen to consider positive action to achieve victory.

Mr. Daniels also has been insisting that Americans must not regard total war as something imported from Europe.

"Americans did it back in frontier days, in the caravans moving west, when every man, woman and child entered into the community's effort to stay alive and win," he said. "We were a total war folk a long time before this man Hitler came along, and I believe we'll be the same a long time after he is gone."

This should have a good effect on American morale. Furthermore, it takes from Hitler credit that did not belong to him. Americans will feel more at home conducting a total effort war now that they view it as an indigenous product, and not an exotic thing to which they must grow accustomed.

HITLER AND JAP STRATEGY

There have been intermittent reports that Hitler is eager to have Japan attack Russia in Siberia to relieve the strain on the Nazi armies on the Russian front. To date Japan has directed no overt act at the Soviet.

But recently Japanese strategy in the Pacific suggests that these reports may have been authentic, and that the best Japan felt able to do in compliance with Hitler's request was to make a token air raid on Dutch Harbor and to make a naval attack on Midway Island, with results that are apparent.

The conclusion to be drawn from this is that Hitler is indeed hard-pressed and that RAF raids on Germany are having disastrous results for the Fuehrer. Anyway, this explanation seems the most logical of all that have been advanced for current Japanese moves. They seem to be dictated by extremity—Hitler's extremity.

The Jap seems to be determined to make certain that when Uncle Sam starts to repay him in earnest he'll do a heap of collecting.

INCOME REPORTS

Reports of the incomes of certain prominent people in the large income group have recently been made under proper authority, but under conditions which Congress should no longer tolerate.

The incomes as reported are grossly deceptive. They do not include the amount received by the taxpayer after paying his taxes, but cover gross taxable income. In many instances it will be found that the recipient actually received for his own use only from one-fifth to one-half the amount reported through Federal channels. The government, which took the remainder in taxes, thus is trying to make it appear that John Taxpayer received in income for his own use money which went to the government.

Democracy works only when the people have the facts and the capacity to think for themselves. The American people are well endowed with ability to think, but the best thinking can not arrive at a sound conclusion on false testimony. It is the business of Congress to see that the government does not mislead the people, as it has done in these instances.

EXPANDING NAVAL STRENGTH

One step nearer fulfillment moves the two-ocean Navy program by the introduction in the House of a bill to add 500 fighting ships and 800 patrol, mine-laying and tender craft.

This measure, sponsored by Chairman Vinson of the Naval Affairs Committee, authorizes the expenditure of more than $8,000,000,000. It will bring to completion two years hence the two-ocean Navy program and, including vessels now under way or appropriated for, would give the United States more than 1,000 fighting ships in the seven seas.

Save as to tonnage there is no breakdown in the bill showing the number of vessels in each category. That must, in part at least, be determined by the lessons the Navy has learned and is learning from the war. From the standpoint of even comparatively recent naval tradition, the most outstanding features of the measure are two: First, not a single battleship is provided for; second, exactly as much tonnage is given for aircraft carriers—500,000—as for cruisers. Destroyers and destroyer escorts combine rate 900,000 tons.

In these figures is clearly embodied a belated recognition of the tremendously increased importance of aircraft in naval warfare. It is universally recognized now, if it wasn't before, that a fleet without adequate support is at the mercy of a smaller enemy force that does have it. And the recent experience of British vessels of the battleship class demonstrates their vulnerability to undersea craft and bombers. Evidently the United States Navy has concluded that the same amount of outlay can provide multiples of fighting value when utilized for other craft.

Authorizations of the Vinson bill do not include those for the quick construction of 100 more submarines and 500,000 tons of auxiliary vessels in connection with that program. For that purpose the House has just reversed the usual procedure by voting the money first and then making the authorization, and did it without a dissenting vote.

Today the American public has no exact knowledge of the extent of American naval power. Because of unwillingness to afford information to the enemy, no statistics have been forthcoming since early last fall. But the public does know that replacements in the Navy program already more than compensate for vessels lost.

A law permitting billeting of defense workers in private homes has been proposed. A problem would be to get congenial landlords and tenants together.

New Kansas wheat prospects are for 175,000,000 bushels. No one seems to be able to put a ceiling on that crop.

The Parent Problem

By GARY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

HELPING CHILD AVOID FEARS

Hundreds of children are terrified by electrical storms. Most of these frights can be prevented. All can be dispersed or reduced.

In order to prevent such needless fears in children, other persons in their presence must avoid showing fear. Parents who are uneasy during an electric storm may be able to discipline themselves into apparent courage. They should realize that the percentage of accidents from lightning is very small.

They should watch a receding storm and learn to enjoy the play of lightning flashes on the distant clouds, inducing the children to be interested too.

We don't, of course, help the child or anybody else overcome this or any other fears by laughing at him. We help as we are able ourselves to turn our attention and his thoughts of fear.

Your tot of three or four might have his first fright during a storm by being awakened by a thunder clap. Go to him then, comfort him, talk to him, read or tell him a story, or play a game with him. Knowing such a storm is approaching, be near the child so as to afford him necessary emotional security, should he be frightened. If the storm comes at night induce the child to look out of the window to see as many trees, cars and the like as possible during the next lightning flash.

Children not exposed to fears in older persons during electric storms may never acquire such fears. I have seen some tots and runabouts shout with glee at each successive thunder clap and lightning flash.

Thanks to foolish suggestions of many adults, some young children acquire strong fears of snakes, worms, toads and turtles. Thanks, on the other hand to the wise guidance of some teachers, many children learn at school to watch such creatures with profit and enjoyment, even handling them with care. In ever so many elementary schoolrooms in the United States, I have seen all sorts of animals and reptiles studied.

Often these creatures become the center of lessons in reading and composition, not to mention nature study. In most parts of our nation there are but few poisonous snakes.

THREE SIDED AFFAIR

Pierre Laval, the French traitor, rapidly is becoming Hitler's worst headache. Forced into office by the Nazis as a puppet of Berlin, Laval was counted upon to complete the job of bringing about closer "cooperation" between France and Germany. This, of course meant the abject surrender of France, regardless of armistice terms.

But Laval does not have the confidence of the French people, nor of anyone else it appears, and his days as head of the Vichy regime seem to be numbered. The administrators on the Island of Martinique have ignored his orders to break off negotiations with the United States for the immobilization of French warships stationed there. He is being ignored by the French people, who are becoming more and more under his heel. He has not solved a single problem that Hitler ordered him to solve and French affairs steadily are deteriorating.

The situation was bad enough for Hitler before Mussolini started kicking up a fuss across the Brenner Pass. Il Duce reminds Hitler that he still wants several slices of French territory and that he intends to have them now. Why else does Hitler suppose he entered the war, anyway? Hitler promised him those areas—Corsica, Tunisia and Nice.

What Noted People Say

WASHINGTON—Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of the Comendos, discloses the temper of the British: "I can not impress upon you sufficiently the real, mad, keen desire everyone I've come across in Britain has to come to grips with the enemy."

SAN FRANCISCO—Gov. Culbert L. Olson, reveals California is ready for all eventualities: "California will never be taken by the Japanese. We, the people of California, never intend to evacuate one inch."

WASHINGTON—Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, U. S. ambassador to Vichy, reports to the President: The French people are extremely friendly to Americans and are hopeful that Americans will do something to improve their present deplorable situation."

NEW YORK—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia declares the blackout of all New York was a success: "The Oberschwein and the Yellow Dog [La Guardia's favorite names for Hitler and Mussolini] are not going to give us any notice, but they are not going to catch us unaware."

These figures is clearly embodied a belated recognition of the tremendously increased importance of aircraft in naval warfare. It is universally recognized now, if it wasn't before, that a fleet without adequate support is at the mercy of a smaller enemy force that does have it. THE DAY MOTHER FINALLY MASTERED THE BICYCLE

(The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:26; sun rises tomorrow 5:31.

The Japs control about 95 per cent of the rubber in this world. We hope they will not control it for too long a stretch.

Gum may be entirely removed from sale soon. Some who have been drinking it recently will not cry over that.

In Johnstown the police will not be allowed to use city owned automobiles except for police duty. Getting tuff.

Office Boy: "Sometimes one sometimes the other, sir."

Detective: "On what day is Mr. Jones likely to arrive first?"

Office Boy: "Well, sir, to tell the truth, at first he was always last, but later he began to get earlier, till at last he was first, but afterwards he got late again, though of late he has been sooner, and after while he got behind as he did before. I expect he'll be getting earlier sooner or later, sir."

LUCID EH, WHAT?

Detective (investigating a murderer, speaking to office boy):

"Who arrives first in the morning, Mr. Jones or his partner?"

Office Boy: "Sometimes one is scared correspondingly? Not by a darned sight. It simply is rather miffed because, after all, it doesn't get any action."

And I speak of daylight rehearsals rather than of nocturnal blackouts.

The nocturnal kind are fizzles. Folk merely turn over in bed when they hear the sirens, remarking, "Phooey!"

But by daylight there's a scurrying for alleged shelter. All hands know its bunk, of course. Still, there's a modicum of sport about it. The citizenry are hunted out of their quarters and chased into "refuges" in hide-and-seek fashion and just love it. As for the wardens?—they're delirious with amusement over their activities.

Only—presently it all peters out into nothingness.

We had one of these things the other day.

"The alarm," we were warned, "will be exactly like the real thing—entirely unexpected." The only thing we were tipped off to was the day of the week and month that it was scheduled for, and the fact that it would be between 10 and 11 a.m.

Promptly at 10:15 a warden rushed into the 13th-story office.

I was trying to work in, to shoot down, for my life's sake, to the 10th floor, to visit with my neighbors in the corridor until 15 minutes later. Drink were served incidentally. Ill say I think it

POURING TEA

"Although you have given much advice on giving and attending teas, you have not stated any of the fundamental principles of pouring at such functions. Please do so soon."—L. L.

Answer: Ask the guest how she prefers her tea. Pour some tea into her cup, adding hot water if she prefers it weak. Next ask her preference for cream or lemon, putting in sugar to her liking. Place a spoon on the saucer with its handle parallel to that of the cup. This cup, saucer and spoon combination should be placed upon the tea plate, with the napkin on the side, not under the cup and saucer.

The hostess should not both pour and wait on the guests. If there is no maid present, the guests should approach the table to receive their tea and help themselves to sandwiches and cake.

If desiring a second cup, a guest should not hesitate to approach the hostess and ask her for it. She will consider it a compliment.

As guests decide to leave, they go over to the hostess, still at the tea table, and shake hands with her. If she is busy, she need not rise. If there is no servant to open the front door, guests, departing early, should let themselves out.

Question: How should wine glasses be arranged on the dinner table?—Reader.

Answer: They should be set in a straight line at the right of the water goblet or grouped to the right of the water goblet, a little toward the center of the table.

Question: Soon I am to attend a school dance, bringing a young man along with me. The teacher who will head the receiving line does not know me. How may I make myself known to her?

—Co-ed.

Answer: You should approach the receiving line first followed by your escort. Upon greeting the teacher heading the line, say: "I am Mary Jones," at that time introducing the young man.

Question: How should I treat some birds with indifference that it is to treat them cordially.

Answer: It has been ruled in Washington that women receiving alimony must pay a tax on it. Omigosh!

The Great Game Of Politics

otic outbursts, his hundred per cent support statements and his passionate protestations of personal friendship for Mr. Roosevelt when Mr. Murray had a chance to stand with the President and put the national interests first, he left the President and put his labor interests first. Not only that, but he resigned from the President's National Defense Mediation Board when it, by a 9-to-12 decision, voted against Mr. Lewis' closed-shop contention, taking his labor associate, Mr. Kennedy, with him, thus scuttling a Presidential agency which just two days before he had praised in the highest terms.

MR. MURRAY did not do these things because he liked Mr. Lewis or was in sympathy with his strike. The reverse of that was true. Very clearly, he did it because not to have supported the strike position of a union as strong as the United Mine Workers would have rendered precarious his own position as a labor leader and made him vulnerable to attack from inside his own ranks. Confronted with that situation, Mr. Murray did not stand with his friend, the President; he stood with his enemy, Mr. Lewis. By no stretch of the imagination can this be called labor statesmanship. It was the act of a labor leader whose first concern is for himself. Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt understood his position and condoned the strike endorsement resolution, which, impudently enough, was followed by one endorsing the President's foreign policy. But that did not make the Murray exhibition any less discreditable.

THE TROUBLE about Mr. Murray is that in his struggle to reconcile his patriotism with his labor politics, the latter generally wins. Not long ago at Pittsburgh, expressing his devotion to the cause of the United Mine Workers (just before he was dropped as vice-president) Mr. Murray broke down and wept. Then he rallied and in a strong voice declared that "I would lose my shirt today to help the President win the war." This, as the New York Herald Tribune points out, hardly accords with his continued championship of general wage increases, specifically the $1-a-day rise for 180,000 workers in "little steel" companies, which, if granted, would be the signal for similar demands all through the industry.

THESE WAGE increases would knock the bottom completely out of the President's anti-inflation program and render entirely futile Mr. Henderson's efforts to keep down the cost of living with price ceilings. In other words, the Herald Tribune says, "Mr. Murray would lose his shirt to help the President win the war, but he wouldn't for a moment jeopardize his power as a labor leader by exhorting his followers to cooperate with the President's program to stabilize wages at present levels." The exigencies of politics compel Presidents to do many things they do not like, but if Mr. Roosevelt is going to continue to let this labor leader sit in his lap, he should insist on fewer tears and more sincerity.

but held back from granting immediate occupancy, evidently using them as bargaining points with Vichy. In other words, Hitler has promised that to both Laval and Mussolini and the two are avowed enemies. If Hitler gives in to Mussolini, Laval might turn on him! if he gives in to Laval, Mussolini might break with the Axis and, if possible escape from the Nazis, negotiate a separate peace with the Allies.

One might say that Hitler holds all the advantages and can force France to do his bidding; that France is unable to resist German pressure. A year ago this might have been true. Even now it is theoretically possible, but not certain. For neither Hitler nor Laval are at all certain of the reaction which would develop in French colonies were Vichy to order Axis support and the French fleet to serve the Nazis. Hitler has spared about all the troops he can afford in occupying France and a serious outbreak in the French Navy or in the French colonies might leave Germany with a hollow victory in the conquest of continental France.

The outcome of the Russian campaign is, of course, the important thing to watch at the moment. But French behavior and reaction may again play an important part in the final outcome of the war.

The Parent Problem

would have verged on being a scandalous act on the Nazis' part to have bombed us during that 15-minute period, to give our performance an air of verisimilitude. But, of course, as we know, they haven't a drop of sociability in their totalitarian system.

Well Advertised

So, consequently, while a pleasant interlude, the event hadn't any wartime bearing.

The meanest part of it is that the unaccommodating Germans know perfectly well, in advance, that we were due to stage the rehearsal referred to. We'd advertised it elaborately. It was scheduled to the tick of a clock. I've remarked that it was due for 10-11 a.m., but my warden tipped me at 10:15 to be on the job at 10:20, in order to catch the elevator.

I knew the whole program at least a week beforehand. Is it likely that the Germans didn't?

Well, I'm not surprised that they didn't pick a time especially suited to our convenience.

Nevertheless, wouldn't it have been a humorous juncture for a fleet of their planes to swish over us? "You're looking for us," they could have hollered, "and here we are registering present."

They probably thought it would be too expensive.

BOVARD-SMITH WEDDING TAKES PLACE SATURDAY

Another pretty wedding ceremony took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bovard of Court street, when their daughter, Miss Arimatha Bovard, became the bride of Raymond Smith, son of Mrs. George Welsh, of Mt. Lebanon, on Saturday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Before an improvised altar, the couple pledged the marriage vows before a gathering of fifty or more guests, including relatives and close friends. Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, officiated, using the single ring service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white lace and chiffon gown, floor length, with three-quarter sleeves, complimented with a shoulder bouquet of yellow rose buds. Her only jewelry was a zircon necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

As her sisters only attendant, Miss Marjorie Bovard wore a delft blue marquessette gown, over matching taffeta. Her shoulder corsage was made up of pink roses.

Henry May of Mt. Lebanon, served as best man.

For the occasion, nuptial music was played by Mrs. Ida Mae Smith of Plain Grove. The approach of the bridal party was announced when she responded the "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner.

An informal reception followed, and later, the assemblage joined on the spacious lawn where a buffet lunch was served. Nuptial appointments predominated in all details.

The bride was a member of the teachers staff of the Plain Grove high school. He is a metallurgist being employed in New Jersey, where they plan on taking up residence at the conclusion of their wedding trip.

No Compensation For Selectees

Ruled Ineligible By Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Bureau

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, June 8.—As result of a ruling by Special Deputy Attorney-General David R. Perry, the Unemployment Compensation Bureau has announced the ineligibility for compensation of selectees who have passed their physical examinations for induction into the army.

Perry, who is working in conjunction with the bureau, issued the opinion that selectees should not be eligible to file claims for compensation during the period before induction as they are not available for work at that time. Under the Pennsylvania Jobless Law, claimants must be advisable for suitable employment at all times.

All local offices have been notified to acquaint potential claimants with the new ruling.

SEEVERS ASKS PARDON

On Thursday, June 18, the appeal of John Dewey Seevere for a pardon from two life imprisonments sentences for murder will be heard by the state board of pardons, in Harrisburg.

On July 25, 1929, Seevere shot and killed his wife and Catherine Rodgers who were riding with him in an automobile from Cleveland bound east. The shooting occurred near Parktown Corners. Seevere's father was injured in the crash of the automobile against a pole and a small son of Mrs. Rodgers was injured.

Seevere stood trial in September,

1929, for the murder of his wife and in June, 1936, was returned from the western penitentiary to stand trial for the murder of Mrs. Rodger.

The second trial was held in order to clear the docket for an appeal for pardon.

Seevere was convicted of first degree murder in both cases and was sentenced to life imprisonment upon each.

Rubber, Gas Rationing Cut Into Use Of State's "Dream Highway"

HARRISBURG, June 8—Trucks, filled to capacity, are riding Pennsylvania's "Dream Highway" more and more each day, but rubber and gasoline shortages are cutting deeply into the number of private cars on the Turnpike said Commission Chairman T. F. Evans.

Truck travel increased 18 per cent last month over May 1941, but private car traffic was more than 30 per cent lower. Ten per cent more busses traveled the highway during that period.

Evans said that of the 900 trucks using the turnpike daily, at least 600 were large semi-trailer types, and that 85 per cent carried war materials of some sort. He added that many were automobile convey vehicles, converted into trucks to transport war equipment.

Philadelphia Five-Alarm Blaze
Disrupts Elevated Traffic

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 8—Investigators today sought to determine the cause of a spectacular five alarm fire which razed a huge mid-city warehouse and halted Philadelphia's elevated trains for more than an hour, causing some 3,000 passengers to be rerouted.

Meyer Levinson, operator of the Victory Storage company, described the ruins as "a total loss amounting to tens of thousands of dollars." He said he had no insurance.

Lack of windows in the five story structure transformed it into a flaming furnace as the heat concentrated with terrific intensity against the copper-covered roof, causing it to collapse an hour after the first alarm.

Twelve firemen were overcome by smoke and one ladder and hose was destroyed by the flames.

The children, throughout the year saved their pennies for their service fund and used it for this purpose.

State Foresters War
Against Spittle Bug

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, June 8—The salta-like matter which is so common at this time on various plants, including forest and ornamental trees, is excreted by insects known as spittle bugs or frog hoppers, the Department of Forests and Waters said. A close examination of the white, frothy masses on host plants reveals the presence of undeveloped insects.

These pests injure trees by making small punctures through the bark and extracting the sap. The pine spittle bug is the most serious pest attacking Scotch pine but it will also infest other evergreen species. This native insect was never recorded as being of economic importance in the country until 1930, when Department foresters reported

Induct 12,326 Recruits For Navy To Avenge Pearl Harbor Attack

(International News Service)

The United Nations Navy had 12,326 new recruits today, all of them sworn in at unprecedented mass ceremonies throughout the nation six months to the minute after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

With Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox characterizing the occasion as symbolizing the nation's determination to restore peace "by administering just punishment to those who have brutally and willfully transgressed all the laws of humanity," the ceremonies were held yesterday in many scattered cities.

In Los Angeles, a street car decked out as a warship led a parade of the new gobs; Florida's most photogenic beauty gave kisses to each of the 42 inductees at Tampa; more than 1,000 men enrolled in Texas alone and in New York City's Central Park, Bill Robinson and former Mayor James J. Walker led 12,000 persons in the first of a series of community songs, as 227 men were inducted.

Chicago was another city where the new sailors were sworn in before a "battlefield" erected in Congress street plaza. In San Francisco, the recruits formed a huge V victory in front of city hall as they took the oath.

So today, the 12,326 new gobs begin their active training preparatory to avenging Pearl Harbor.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Others who spoke were Ensign Norman Brown, County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers, Miss Annelie Fletcher (Miss Navy), Lieutenant E. B. Keckler and Captain Carl Andreassen, president of the Service Men's association.

The induction was handled by Lieutenant E. B. Keckler, commandant of the Pittsburgh area of the navy. After speaking to the audience and to the volunteers, he administered the oath, and as he finished the band swung into "The Star Spangled Banner".

Captain Andreassen then presented each of the boys with a service kit containing a shoe brush and polish, and Miss Navy shook hands with each of the young men. Dr. McIlvaine then pronounced the benediction and the meeting was over.

It was an unusual meeting, a colorful one, and one that will have repercussions some months hence out upon the waters of the Pacific and the Atlantic, when the 24 youths have been trained to do the work the navy now must bear.

Misses Emily and Philomena DePiero of East Cherry street have departed for Philadelphia, where they will attend the graduation of their brother, Nicholas DePiero, who will receive his doctor of medicine degree at Hahnemann's Medical school Thursday, June 11.

CONCLUDE NAVY WEEK WITH PARADE AND INDUCTION

of march covered from end to end, and the order maintained was of the best.

The Legion band headed the marchers, and back of them came the detachment of the Seabees, commanded by Ensign Norman Brown. This is the unit quartered in the National Youth Administration center, in Cunningham Park. Following them came the volunteers and such units as the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Red Cross, the Gold Cross Ambulance Corps, of the Civil Defense, of Pittsburgh, headed by National Commander Elmer A. Webb. In this unit were 12,000 persons in the first of a series of community songs, as 227 men were inducted.

Chicago was another city where the new sailors were sworn in before a "battlefield" erected in Congress street plaza. In San Francisco, the recruits formed a huge V victory in front of city hall as they took the oath.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad made an impressive showing with a replica of a Diesel passenger engine on a motor chassis and a large group of employees. Detachments of Shenango Pottery, Johnson Bronze and Standard Steel Spring employees were in line, also.

Reviewing Stand

Up Washington street to East the parade moved, then to North and to Jefferson street, and at the Legion Home, at the corner of Jefferson and Falls streets, the reviewing stand was located. On the stand were Mayor Charles B. Mayne, County Commissioners William R. Walton and Joseph F. Travers, Lieutenant-Commander Samuel W. Townsend, Lieutenant E. B. Keckler, Chief Stoker D. C. Ritchie, and Chief Ship Fitter D. C. Ritchie, and a number of prominent citizens.

On up Jefferson street to the Cathedral the parade moved, and into the auditorium for the induction ceremonies. For the ceremonies over 1,000 people attended.

Induction Ceremony

The induction service was not long, but it was impressive. The 24 recruits were seated upon the stage and with them the men taking part in the program. The Legion band, under direction of George Moore, opened with "Anchors Aweigh," and then the introduction of the charman, Bart Richards. Dr. John Jameson McIlvaine, pastor of First Presbyterian church, delivered the invocation, and Mayor Mayne was introduced for the address of welcome.

Given as he is to brevity in public utterances, Mayor Mayne made his remarks more ordinarily brief. In a few words he congratulated the young men upon their patriotism, welcomed the guests and wished the recruits Godspeed in their new field.

Lieutenant-Commander Samuel W. Townsend, a New Castle man, had charge of radio communications for the Fourth Naval District in Philadelphia, made the response. He brought the greetings of the commanding officer of the district and expressed his pleasure at being able to attend such a colorful ceremony in his home city.

Judge Braham Speaks

Judge Braham's address was aptly suited to the occasion. Said he: "Deadly peril presses upon us from many quarters; danger laps our very shores. Everywhere on the seven seas the ships, planes and submarines of the navy keep constant watch to repel the enemy from our shores. Only this week the Japanese struck at our outpost, indicative of what may happen any day and hour."

And again Judge Braham said: "All of this means work for the navy. It means blue water sailors and lots of them. I have said the work of defeating Japan must be done by the navy at the end of long lines of communication and against a wily and desperate foe who has been underestimated too long. I have painted a somber picture. This, of course, is leaving out of account Jimmy Doolittle and his devil-may-care men from Shangri-La."

"Let no man think he may find safety for himself apart from the safety of all. What assurance has the profiteer who makes a fortune out of this war that he will be able to keep it after the war? What guarantee can the Quisling and traitor among us receive of the future in case of defeat of this country? He may expect the scraps which fall from the big table in Berlin or in Tokyo—nothing more."

"If we fail, all fail; if we are willing to purchase peace at the price of servitude, men everywhere will become slaves. This must never be."

Other Speakers

Others who spoke were Ensign Norman Brown, County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers, Miss Annelie Fletcher (Miss Navy), Lieutenant E. B. Keckler and Captain Carl Andreassen, president of the Service Men's association.

May Allow Four Gallons Weekly

International News Service) WASHINGTON, June 8.—Joel Dean, OPA fuel rationing chief, announced today that the east coast's basic gasoline rationing unit will be increased from three to four gallons under the permanent program going into effect shortly after July 1.

Dean explained that the larger unit will be possible under resulting control.

The announcement came as an eight-man House committee, spearhead of a drive to block nationwide rationing of motor fuel, awaited a conference with President Roosevelt on the issue which virtually has split the capital into armed camps.

Dean also announced that the non-essential motorists will be allotted enough gasoline under the permanent program to permit 2,880 miles of driving annually. The present average national driving mileage is 9,000 miles a year.

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, said in his first press conference since the Nipponese attack upon Pearl Harbor six months ago, that American losses have been "relatively inconsiderable."

While overjoyed at outcome of the battle naval men were not willing to concede the Japanese retreat as a definite indication that the enemy has accepted the Midway engagement as complete defeat in the Hawaiian area. Even with heavy losses, they said, Japan's remaining naval strength still is believed to be formidable.

Admiral King declared, however, that the final decision on the Midway battle may change the course of the war in the Pacific.

The Japanese are probably withdrawing to their powerful mid-Pacific bases in the Marshall and Gilbert islands or the Carolines possibly to take stock of damage, make repairs and to reassemble their forces for the next round of the Pacific battle.

"American battleships and airplanes fear nothing," said a Chungking rickshaw puller as he read of the battle.

The official central Saigon Daily News said that the Midway victory was the most valuable contribution of American arms in the six months that the United States has been at war.

The Communist newspaper Sin Hua Jin Pao stated that "the Midway battle has blown to bits the bogey of Japanese invincibility."

CHUNGKING, June 8.—The people of China, their nation torn by five years of war with Japan, were jubilant today as they scanned special news bulletins on the victory scored by American air and naval forces over the Japanese fleet at Midway.

Nurses Forget Own Bravery To Praise Men Of Corregidor

Twelve Reaching Melbourne From 'The Rock' Extol Heroes

(International News Service)

MELBOURNE, June 8.—Thirteen American women, twelve of them nurses and one the wife of a naval officer, among the last to escape from the Philippines before Corregidor capitulated, talked little of themselves today but much of the heroism of American men on "The Rock" and Bataan.

Without exception, they spoke in glowing terms of the bravery and self-sacrifice of the men who held out against terrific odds for so long.

"I can't think of anyone who did more than another," said Mary L. Moultrie, of Woodbury, Ga., when the group arrived in Melbourne yesterday. "They worked so splendidly as a team."

The nurses all praised the Corregidor hospital's chief nurse, First Lieutenant Jessie Nesbit, of Colorado, who still is on Corregidor, or a prisoner elsewhere.

"She's one swell person," one of the Americans said. "Even when she had malaria she insisted on waiting on other such nurses."

From small bits of information gleaned from the American nurses—who didn't want to talk about themselves—it developed that they had worn oversize aircorp overalls that they made crutches, and improvised beds from bamboo in those dark days before Corregidor finally was forced by starvation and sheer weight of enemy numbers to capitulate.

TWO WORKMEN HURT

Two workmen suffered injuries over the weekend at the United Engineering Co. site on George street. Warren Clark, aged 34, of 214 Mahoning avenue, being treated Saturday at the Jameson Memorial hospital for a contusion of the little finger of the right hand, received when caught under the lever of a concrete bucket. Andrew Marapice, aged 28 years, of 1093 Pollock avenue, suffered injuries of the foot early Sunday afternoon when a fellow workman dropped a jack on his foot.

Reports Curiosity To Forester Fox

Highland Heights Man Once Lost Land Turtle For Almost Year

T. R. Altman of Highland Heights, has informed City Forester Owen Fox that he has curiosity in the form of a land turtle, or tortoise.

He found the tortoise on the old Whaley farm two years ago. A year later it got away from his place, but while hunting last year, he again found the creature in the same vicinity he had, two years before.

Upon examining the tortoise, he has found the figures 1812 and letters "W. B." cut or burned into the shell, faintly discernible. Altman also informed Fox that the shell of the tortoise shows that it is much worn by the weather, earth and sand. He stated that when he pulled out one of its hind legs, the creature drew it back into the shell quite slowly, indicating much age. Its movements as it travelled were so slow it was hardly noticeable.

As a test of its speed, Altman would place it in one end of the cellar, sometimes the tortoise would travel to the other end, and other times only cover half the distance.

Gas Ration Checkup Bares Violations At Philadelphia

One Out of Seven Dealers Ignoring Rules, OPA Charges

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Fourteen per cent—one out of seven—of the gasoline dealers in the Philadelphia metropolitan area today were reported to be violating the federal rationing program.

This was announced by the OPA following a "whirlwind" investigation in which well over 1,000 civilian volunteers took part in New York City, Newark, northeastern New Jersey and Philadelphia.

Robert J. Callaghan, chief regional enforcement attorney in Pennsylvania, said that 25 service stations out of the first 175 checked in the Philadelphia area were violators.

The auxiliary investigators, Callaghan said, drove their cars to garages or filling stations and asked: "Can I get some gas without a rationing card? I left my car home."

It was emphasized that the investigators were instructed not to use undue pressure or threats of any kind in attempting to get the gas.

After the reports turned in today are checked, it was explained, indicated violators in the Philadelphia area will be summoned to administrative hearings before officials designated by the OPA and where the charges are substantiated, the dealers will be shut off from further supply of gasoline for an indeterminate period.

County C. E. Plans Various Activities

Picnic For Junior Division To Be Held At New Wilmington, June 12

Plans were made to have a Christian Endeavor meeting soon at Central Presbyterian church and to invite the sailors stationed at the N. Y. A. Center when the executive board of the Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Union held its regular meeting recently in Central church. This meeting will be directed by Miss Aleta Montgomery, missionary superintendent.

Rev. John Earl Myers, Jr., conducted the worship program at the executive meeting while the president, Thelma Bumbaugh, had charge of the business session. Superintendents' reports were given.

The junior division of the Union will have its annual picnic at New Wilmington Park on Friday afternoon, June 12. The group is sending a petition to both houses of congress and the president stating their stand in favor of the Sheppard bill soon to be brought before them.

Next meeting will be held in the form of a picnic on July 2 when plans will be made for attending the State Christian Endeavor convention which will be held in Lancaster July 6-11. There have been 12 registrations handed in for Lawrence county.

After the meeting, an hour of recreation was enjoyed under the leadership of Mr. Myers. Guests were Richard Hutcheson from Western Seminary who is acting as pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church during the summer.

Tree Plantations Cost Over $100,000

About 9,000,000 Trees Planted This Year To Reforest 7,500 Acres

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, June 8.—The plantations established in Pennsylvania this spring with trees raised in the State Forest tree nurseries represent an investment to the land owner, both State and private, considerably in excess of $100,000 said W. E. Montgomery, Chief of the Division of Management, Department of Forests and Waters.

Approximately 9,000,000 trees were shipped from the four nurseries operated by the Department to reforest more than 7,500 acres. Much of this acreage represented idle and unproductive land. A million of trees were transplants which were sold by the Commonwealth for $5.00 per thousand. The balance of the trees set out were seedlings which were sold $2.00 per thousand, the actual cost of production. State trees are sold only for watershed protection and timber production, and may not be used for ornamental or shade purposes or for raising Christmas trees.

No additional reforestation with State trees will be undertaken until fall said Mr. Montgomery, although applications for planting stock for fall planting are now being received. Prospective tree planters may receive further details and a copy of Circular 31, "Forest Trees to Plant in Pennsylvania," upon request to the Department of Forests and Waters, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Flag To Honor 50 Spring Hill Boys

World War II Service Flag Will Be Dedicated Shortly

The Spring Hill district on the West Side, repeating its World War I tribute, will soon dedicate a new service flag bearing 50 stars in honor of the 50 neighborhood youths now in the armed services.

Tonight, Chairman James Million and a committee will complete arrangements for the public ceremony which will be held near the LaBaza store, High street. No date has yet been set.

Million said an American flag will be raised over the new service flag, and both will fly daily. He reported that the 50 boys in whose honor the flag will wave are from the High Bluff, Magee, Boroline and Walter street section.

In the first World War a similar flag was flown in honor of the Spring Hill men.

CHILD SCALDED

David Byers, aged 2 years, little son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Byers, of 414 Highland avenue, was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at 4:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon, for scalds of the left arm, received when he pulled a cup of hot tea from the table.
